Northern Ireland & Republic of Ireland

Our reputation is growing...

We want to tell you all about golf in Northern Ireland: about our world-class courses and our major champion golfers. About our pride at hosting the Irish Open. About the diversity of our courses: championship links, premium parklands and superb seaside layouts. We want to talk about the friendliness of the people, the outstanding scenery, the warmth of welcome and the fact that, wherever you are in Northern Ireland, it's easy to get a round.

However, we thought it best, that you heard it from the experts...

"We have fantastic golf courses, fantastic facilities, but to have three Major champions from a small place in a short period of time, it's just incredible. It's brilliant for home."

Darren Clarke, Open Champion 2011

"I love being from Northern Ireland, and I never get tired of telling people how great it is. I'm delighted to support our golfing heritage wherever I am in the world."

Rory McIlroy, US Open Champion 2011

"I'm very proud to be from Northern Ireland and our little country has produced some great players over the years. We have some of the greatest courses in the world. There are great tests, great views, great hospitality, and all that you would want to get from a great day of golf."

Graeme McDowell, US Open Champion 2010

David Brice, Golf International Inc.

Northern Ireland seems to have found a new, super-star status in the world of golf during the past couple of years, aided in no small part by the trio of golf champions this small country has produced. Rory, Graeme and Darren have become not only ambassadors for the game of golf, but ambassadors for their homeland, where golf is King.

Not only does this delightful country produce golf champions, it also boasts an enviable collection of some of the world's very best golf courses. Friendly and informal, challenging and invigorating, Northern Ireland's golf courses are increasingly being 'talked up' as a superb destination for both the serious and casual golfer.

The passion began when Royal Belfast laid down a golf course in 1881, reputed to be the oldest in Ireland. The game quickly caught on and today Northern Ireland can boast over 90 courses in what is a very small and compact area. All the courses are easily accessible within a short drive of each other. Even playing a pair of different layouts each day, there would barely be enough time to include every course that calls out to be played and still there would be gems left out.

Northern Ireland's 'jewels in the crown' are Royal County Down and Royal Portrush, both regularly ranked in the world's top 20 courses. If you reflect on the marvellous collection of green sites, you will appreciate that Mother Nature was the principal architect at these courses. Many of our most respected courses were designed by the leading and most innovative course architects of the day such as Harry S. Colt, Old Tom Morris and Alister MacKenzie - who designed the Augusta National Golf Club.

In Northern Ireland, you have found the right place to fulfil your golfing dreams.

Darren Clarke became the first player to win the English Open three times in 2002 and in 2003 became the first player other than Tiger Woods to capture more than one World Golf Championship title. In 2011 Darren won The Open Championship at Royal St. George's.

Graeme McDowell is the first Northern Ireland golfer to win the US Open Championship. He is also the first Northern Ireland man to win a major since Fred Daly won the 1947 Open Championship.

Rory McIlroy won the 2011 US Open at Congressional Country Club with the lowest score in history, 16 under par. Turning professional in September 2007, Rory had soared up the World Rankings to number one by May 2012.

Welcome to links – Northern Ireland style

Northern Ireland links courses are an experience you will remember forever.

There are links courses in the world that have a truly unique effect on golfers. They arouse the feeling that you've experienced something extraordinary - courses that inspire and put your skills to the ultimate test. Imagine bracing winds that can turn from ally to adversary in a second, and immense sand dunes hiding all manner of pitfalls and possibilities.

A third of the world's links courses are in Ireland, and in Northern Ireland you will find links courses like no other including two of the world's top ranked courses, Royal Portrush and Royal County Down.

But one would be wise not to forget such hidden gems as Ardglass, Kirkistown Castle, Portstewart and Castlerock. In fact all of our accredited links courses have something special to offer golfers.

Links play in Northern Ireland is the closest to an extreme sport golf can get.

Royal Portrush, Co. Antrim

No wonder some of our courses regularly feature in top 20 world golf rankings and have been hosts to international events such as the British Seniors Open, British Open and now the Irish Open.

You can be guaranteed visual drama at all our links courses, with stunning scenery, constant sea views, towering dunes and twisting terrain. Majestic, world-renowned, ruthlessly challenging, deviously exhilarating.

“True links is tumultuous topography that can’t be built by blueprint, only by centuries of sea-blown sands.”

Tom Coyne, A Course called Ireland

Spoilt for parkland choice

When it comes to superb parkland courses in Northern Ireland, you'll be spoiled for choice.

In fact, you can barely step out the door without stumbling upon a new parkland challenge full of lush rolling hills, fiendishly tricky greens and outstanding views. Temptation abounds!

But don't be fooled by the gentle slopes. Our accredited parkland courses can be just as challenging as our infamous links courses, full of twists and turns designed to deceive with lake and river shots demanding pin-point accuracy. Some of the world's finest players and designers have had a hand in laying out our parkland courses, among them Harry S. Colt, James Braid and Eddie Hackett.

Many of our parkland courses are conveniently close, even within our cities. Royal Belfast, winner of the Parkland of the Year Award in 2013, and one of the founder clubs of the Golfing Union of Ireland, is mere minutes outside the city and is just one of over a dozen superb Belfast courses. Stunning clubs such as Malone and Belvoir Park are ideal for combining 18 holes with shopping, theatre, museums and other city attractions.

For rural breaks, check out Clandeboye near the lively, attractive seaside resort of Bangor, the mature parkland of Foyle Golf Club - still buzzing from the UK City of Culture 2013 celebrations in Derry~Londonderry - and Roe Park, set in a beautiful valley opening onto the magnificent Causeway Coast – gateway to some of our most spectacular natural attractions including the Giant's Causeway.

City-scapes, country breaks and more challenges than you can shake a stick at, we'll spoil you in the best possible way.

The ins and outs

What to Wear

In Northern Ireland, the weather forecast can often be all four seasons in a single day, so it's always advisable to pack your waterproofs. Smart casual is the accepted uniform in the clubhouse so leave the jeans and trainers behind. More traditional clubs may request a jacket and tie when using the dining room so it's a good idea to check with the club in advance.

Soft Spikes & Handicap Certificates

Many golf clubs now have a soft spikes only policy, so please check ahead of time. With handicap certificates now the accepted norm, be sure to bring your club certificate or club card with you.

Green Fees

Most clubs offer group rates which include green fees and club house catering. Clubs may offer concession rates for students, juveniles and seniors. Make your green fee reservations directly with the golf club.

Trollies & Caddies

Trollies are commonly used on our courses and are inexpensive to hire from most clubs. You can also book a caddy at some of our more popular championship courses. Simply make arrangements beforehand.

Currency & Credit Cards

Sterling is the currency used in Northern Ireland. While most shops, hotels and restaurants will accept most major credit cards, not all small businesses do, so it's a good idea to carry some cash with you to cover these expenses. Euro is accepted in selected areas, generally border regions and larger cities.

Ardglass Golf Club

Situated on the south-east coast of County Down, Ardglass is unquestionably one of the most spectacular courses in Ireland, having won the Irish Golf Tour Operators Association Best Links Course of the Year Award Oct 2011.

The dramatic layout of the course with several tees and greens overlooking the ocean gives it a really rugged feel. It is part links, part cliff-top in nature. The course meanders its way out to a headland, then winds its way back, along the way offering some of the most thrilling play bar none. The first five holes are truly memorable and run right alongside the sea. The par 3 2nd (Howd's Hole) is many people's favourite and many people's undoing. With the tee shot needing to be fired across a rocky inlet, it is a real death-or-glory hole, somewhat reminiscent of the notorious 3rd at Tralee, County Kerry.

"At only 158 yards it may not be as damaging to the score card as 'Calamity' at Portrush but it nevertheless comes with a health warning" (Golf World). A second magnificent par 3 is the downhill 12th where the Irish Sea can provide a daunting diversion and when the wind is dead against you, it can be truly intimidating. The final hole however, offers a good chance of a closing birdie, and then it's off to the 19th – in true Ardglass style, a restored castle. Bring plenty of spare golf balls!

Did you know?

Ardglass Golf Club has the oldest building in the world being used as a Clubhouse. It's built on the remains of fortified warehouses erected around 1400. Naturally, the Golf Club has its fair share of stories, ghostly and otherwise.

Ballycastle Golf Club

The seaside resort of Ballycastle is situated on the Causeway Coast which is a designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

Founded in 1890, Ballycastle Golf Club is a founder member of the Golfing Union of Ireland. Despite modest beginnings, on a local area of sandy turf known as the Warren, the original nine holes opened in 1891. By 1926 the final layout was created and the current 18 hole course has remained largely unchanged to the present day.

The course 'clubhouse' prior to 1901 consisted of a wood and corrugated iron hut. Over the years a fully functioning clubhouse was developed up to 2003 when the clubhouse was rebuilt and extensively modernised, providing excellent golfing facilities for both members and visitors.

The first five parkland holes are bounded by the rivers Margy and Carey and the ancient Bonamargy Abbey is situated alongside the second, 3rd and 4th holes. The outstanding panoramic views of Glenshesk and the North Antrim Coast may force you to take your eye off the ball more often than you would like.

Did you know?

Bonamargy Friary, situated in the middle of Ballycastle's golf course, is the resting place of the reclusive 'Black Nun' Julia McQuillan. She requested to be laid to rest at the entrance of the Abbey so worshippers would forever tread on her grave.

ACCREDITED

Bangor Golf Club

Bangor golf course was designed and laid out in 1935 by the pre-eminent golf course architect of the time, James Braid, the legendary golfer who won the Open championship five times.

Seventy years on, trees planted then can now be seen in their full beauty, and the fairways and greens would do justice to many a course. There are stunning views of Belfast Lough, the Antrim Hills, the Irish Sea and the coast of Scotland from the top of the 4th hill and the view from the Clubhouse windows can't be beat.

The course has attracted some major events, including the Ulster and Irish Professional Championships and Pro-Ams in which names such as Christy O'Connor Senior, Fred Daly, Peter Allis, Tony Jacklin and Roberto de Vincenzo featured.

The professional record was set on August 1962 by Christy O'Connor Senior who scored 62 with nine birdies, eight pars and an eagle at the 460 yard 5th hole.

The length of the course is 6410 yards from the medal tees, and although not an especially difficult course, it is enough of a challenge to entertain good players without discouraging the less skilled.

Did you know?

Norman Drew had an outstanding amateur career, all the more remarkable in that it was achieved in only four years before he turned Professional in 1953. He was the first golfer to play in the Walker Cup, Ryder Cup and Canada Cup (now World Cup).

Belvoir Park Golf Club

Northern Ireland golfers are very fortunate to enjoy several fine examples of the esteemed H.S. Colt's talents for course design, with Belvoir Park considered one of the best.

Belvoir Park Golf Club is just 3 miles from the city centre of Belfast, but you wouldn't know it once you are on the course.

Golfers are shielded from the noise and sights of the city by huge, mature trees which line every fairway, many of which were well established in 1927 when the course was first built using teams of horses and hand ploughs. Largely unaltered since its design, the only changes to the course have been brought about by thoughtful planting of 40,000 new trees in the late 1950s.

From the balcony of the imposing new clubhouse, the green fingers of the fairways fan out like avenues, giving panoramic views of the 9th green, 10th fairway, 13th tee and 18th green. To the right of the clubhouse can be seen Samson and Goliath, the twin cranes of the Harland and Wolff shipyard which built the famous RMS Titanic passenger ship.

Mr. Harry Colt, upon being employed as course architect, reported, "I consider that it will be possible to make a course affording an excellent test and, at the same time, one that will give maximum of pleasure to players".

Did you know?

By the mid 1930s, Belvoir Park was renowned as the best parkland course in Northern Ireland. However, during World War II, the 3rd, 4th and 5th fairways were used for cultivating potatoes and flax in the 'Dig for Victory' campaign.

Cairndhu Golf Club

Cairndhu Golf Club is situated in 100 acres of parkland and surrounded by breath-taking views of the world famous Antrim Coast Road, the Glens of Antrim and the Scottish coastline.

The 6142 yard par 70 course is set upon a coastal headland and extensive mature parklands in what was once the historic Carnfunnock Estate.

From the first five holes there are extensive views of the Antrim coast, the Mull of Kintyre, and sea vistas extending to the Scottish Islands of Jura and Islay.

The signature hole is the 160 yard par 3 2nd "The Head" which is set upon the exposed headland. Depending on how the wind blows the tee shot to a narrow green can require an extensive variety of shots and poses a club selection dilemma.

The remaining four holes on the front nine descend into mature parkland with a variety of trees providing the course's main defences.

The more challenging back nine commences with our version of "Amen Corner". The 10th hole is a challenging 410 yard par 4, which is followed by a daunting 215 yard par 3.

Did You Know

Cairndhu Golf Club is situated on the historic Carnfunnock Estate along the famous causeway coastal route. The first four holes are situated on Ballygally Head, a volcanic plug which juts out into the Irish Sea.

Castlerock Golf Club

Castlerock Golf Club on the North Coast embodies all the essential charms of links golf. 'Miss this beauty and you are missing a treat!'

David Brice, Golf International Inc.

Castlerock Golf Club, in the seaside village of Castlerock, lies approximately 5 miles due west of Coleraine on the North Coast. It's a fabulous links course set among rolling sand dunes. Its scenic qualities embrace the river Bann flowing, the eye-catching views of Donegal and, on a clear day, Scotland and the Isle of Islay.

The Championship Mussenden Course is a pure seaside routing with firm fast greens and an intimacy with the landscape. The best-known hole is the 4th, called the Leg o' Mutton, a 200 yard par 3 with a railway line out of bounds to the right, a stream which cuts across the fairway diagonally and a raised green. Most players look forward to reaching it, and even more feel relieved when it is behind them.

Even closer to the sea is the 9 hole Bann Course, which contains a par 5 described as, "one of the most scenic holes in Irish golf."

This superb 27 hole layout should be included in every golf itinerary, loosening up on the 9 hole Bann course, followed by a Clubhouse lunch, and putting your swing to the test of classic links golf.

Did you know?

Mussenden Golf Course is named after the Mussenden Temple, a small circular building perched on a clifftop. Built by Frederick Hervey, the Earl Bishop of Derry, the Temple was inspired by the Temple of Vista in Tivoli, Italy.

Clandeboye Golf Club

This deservedly popular North Down club boasts two excellent courses, the Dufferin and the Ava. The vistas from the Dufferin Course over Belfast Lough and the Scottish Coast beyond, and Strangford Lough from the Ava Course create a perfect golfing ambience.

The Championship Dufferin Course, largely woodland/heathland in character, offers the golfer a genuine and demanding test. This highly rated course, renowned for its unforgiving opening holes, is exacting in its demands for skill, and memorable for its special features.

The signature hole is surely the 386 yard par 4 4th where the daunting tee shot into a narrow-necked fairway embraced on both sides by gorse heather and trees sends shivers through even the most hardened veteran.

The Ava Course is the perfect partner to its sister course, exemplified by 'Tower Gap', the 524 yard par 5 2nd hole, rated one of the best holes in Ireland. Narrow fairways, established trees, gorse, bracken, rock close to the surface and all the other hazards of an unspoilt landscape make it a tough and varied challenge. A more sheltered course, the Ava's user friendly fairways make it extremely popular with members and visitors alike.

Dungannon Golf Club

Formed in 1890, Dungannon Golf Club is a founding member of the Golfing Union of Ireland. This pleasant parkland course has been extended in recent years with the advice of its famous member Darren Clarke.

Like other clubs of its vintage, the clubhouse facilities were small but in 2000, the clubhouse was completely rebuilt on the original site to provide the best facilities for the new Millennium.

Dungannon is also home to Northern Ireland's Darren Clarke, the 2011 Open Champion and it was Darren, now an Honorary Life Member, who officially opened the new Clubhouse in June 2000.

The course is located in typical drumlin countryside with Dungannon town as a backdrop. The course reflects the different acquisition dates of the front and back holes, in that the front nine are reasonably flat whilst the back nine test the fitness and psyche of the average golfer.

Fairways throughout are wide to let the ponds, bunkers and course structure challenge the player.

One of these new holes, the signature 9th par 3 "Darren Clarke", features a narrow, ribbon-like crescent shaped green protected from the tee by a pond.

The Club has a range of facilities for all visitors, including an 18-hole championship Golf Course, Spa, Restaurant, Fitness Suite and onsite accommodation.

Set deep in the Lagan Valley, Edenmore Golf & Country Club is just 20 minutes from Belfast. The course, designed by Frank Ainsworth along with brothers Kenneth and James Logan, is a fine example of parkland golf. It features over 6000 yards of challenging tee shots, fairways and greens interspersed with ponds, streams and mature parkland.

Surrounded by mature trees, the 13th green has a small landing area just ahead of a daunting pond. Reachable in two by skilled golfers, the undulating green has several tough pin positions to protect eagle putts. Many end up wondering why they took on the pond on this signature par 5. A true risk and reward hole.

The length of the course is 6278 yards from the medal tees. It has a good mix of holes to entertain the better players without discouraging the lesser skilled. The course has an array of practice facilities surrounding the magnificent club house making it very convenient to warm-up before or relax after your round.

Galgorm Castle Golf Club

Home of the Northern Ireland Open. This golf course is set in 220 acres of mature parkland in the grounds of one of Ireland's historic demesnes.

This is truly an exciting course and offers both the novice and low handicapped golfer a stimulating challenge and a memorable round. Within the area of the golf course are two historic features, Rory Og MacQuillan Castle which overlooks and dominates the 10th green and a network of souterrains at the 5th and 8th greens.

At the rear of the Clubhouse is the Golf Academy which incorporates a floodlit driving range with 24 covered bays. Within the Clubhouse is the Eagle Restaurant and for something a little different, Galgorm Castle Estate is also home to a beautiful Garden Centre – Creative Gardens.

Galgorm features in John Redmond's top 30 Courses in Ireland.

"I would consider the course one of the best we will play on this year. It is nicely defined and the greens are outstanding. The whole set-up and conditioning is worthy of the European Tour."

Hilton Templepatrick Golf Club

The four star luxury Hilton Templepatrick Hotel and Country Club is situated on 220 acres of beautiful park and woodland on the Castle Upton Estate.

This 18-hole course, designed by David Jones and David Feherty, is acclaimed as one of Northern Ireland's finest. It features 7000 yards of challenging fairways and greens interspersed with lakes and mature parkland. Probably the most daunting drive you will encounter is at the par 4 13th. To find the narrow fairway you need to avoid the Six Mile River on the right and two fairway bunkers on the left. To reach the green you must thread between the two bunkers hugging the left side of the green and stay out of the afore mentioned river. Just a few miles from Belfast International Airport, it's perfectly situated for business or leisure visitors to make time for 18 holes.

Before you take on the course, you can warm up on our floodlit driving range incorporating 16 bays, 7 with an automated teeing system, a short-game zone and putting green.

The course has hosted major professional and amateur tournaments including the Ladies European Tour Northern Ireland Open and the Senior British Open Amateur Championships.

Holywood Golf Club

Set high in the Holywood Hills of County Down, Holywood Golf Club is just 7 miles outside of Belfast. The club is well known for its most famous member, world golf star Rory McIlroy, who joined at the tender age of 8 years old.

Holywood's front nine holes present an easy walk and plenty of room for the golfer to spray it a bit off the tee. The back nine, however, is laid out on different terrain with elevation changes and challenge all the way. It's here where the splendour of Belfast lough and the city can be viewed. When playing holes 10 through 14 you can enjoy the views of the Belfast docklands where Titanic was built. Indeed, many people gathered here to watch the famous ship sail.

The difficult 12th hole is said to be the toughest of them all. It requires a long accurate tee shot down the left side and a second shot over the rugged terrain to an elevated green.

Then at the par 4 14th, you will have to negotiate the quarry and fairway bunkers to make a par. Get through this difficult stretch and you'll have a score worth talking about!

Its length is not challenging but as Rory states, "it has all the traits that develop your game from playing it regularly".

Did you know?

At 8 years of age, Rory McIlroy became the youngest full member of Holywood Golf Club.

At 9, he won the Under 10 World Championship at Doral, Florida. At 11, he shot par around Holywood's par 69.

Kilkeel Golf Club

A most attractive parkland course enclosed by the walls of the Kilmorey Estate at the foot of the Mourne Mountains. The par 72 championship course was designed by the famous Dublin golf architect Eddie Hackett.

Set in mature woodland and masses of rhododendron shrubs, Kilkeel has become one of the best inland stretches in Ireland. Located 3 miles from the town centre, the beautiful and historic Carlingford Lough flows alongside the town and frequent glimpses can be obtained through the many mature trees separating the fairways.

Only 12 miles from world famous Royal County Down, the club has played host to the Senior European Tour and through the Royal and Ancient, has been used as a qualifying course for the British Amateur and Senior British Open.

Expanded to 18 holes in 1993, the new layout provides a true test to players at all categories. A new clubhouse, built in 2000 on land overlooking the 18th green, provides a spacious restaurant and bar facilities.

Kirkistown Castle Golf Club

Situated on the Ards Peninsula coastline, Kirkistown Castle is a real old-fashioned gem. It is the nearest links golf course to Belfast and is uniquely the most easterly 18-hole course on the island of Ireland.

Here you can play 'The Open' style links at very reasonable green fee rates. Kirkistown Castle Golf Club has a huge variety of holes and being at the seaside means that 'wind' is nearly always something to be mastered as well as the subtleties of the course.

The legendary golf course architect James Braid designed the layout in 1934 and little has changed since.

The signature hole is the par 4 10th, measuring 435 yards. With out of bounds all along the left side, some bunkering on the right and a small elevated green protected by gorse and links rough, this hole lives up to its ranking of 3rd hardest hole.

The layout makes perfect use of the two small hills at either end of the course. The 12th hole links the two hills with the tee box on one and an exposed green on top of the other.

This area has the lowest rainfall in Northern Ireland and, with the free draining sandy base, the course remains playable all year round.

Lisburn Golf Club

It is testament to Fred Hawtree's architectural skills that his original plan for the course remains virtually unaltered since he first walked around the farm at Blaris Lodge and sketched it on the back of an envelope!

Lisburn Golf Club started off as a compact 9 hole course in the heart of the town at the turn of the 20th century. It moved to its present site in the early 1970's and Hawtree achieved what most golfers would regard as an ideal layout with two loops of nine holes, each starting and finishing at the Clubhouse and each composed of two par 5s, two par 3s and five par 4s.

This layout has been further enhanced with the planting of azaleas, rhododendrons, cherry blossom trees and specimen conifers that make Lisburn the "Augusta of the North" in the springtime.

As you progress round the course, you may need to exercise a variety of shots to manage your way around the water hazards and avenues of tree plantations. This is probably best exemplified by the signature hole, the 6th, measuring 158 yards, with a green surrounded by trees and guarded by water and bunkers. It demands an accurate tee shot and then a smooth putting stroke to cope with the gentle borrows on the two tier green.

Did you know?

The course record of 64 is held by David Feherty, the golf commentator for American TV golf. David played in the Ulster Professional Championship in 1989, recording a four round aggregate of 262 (65, 64, 68 and 65). He won the Championship by 18 shots!

Lough Erne Resort

Lough Erne, voted 'Golf Resort of the Year' (Irish Golf Tour Operators Association 2010), is home to two Championship golf courses – The Faldo Course and Castle Hume Course.

Designed by six time Major winner Sir Nick Faldo, Lough Erne is his first golf course design in Ireland. Its spectacular setting, nestled on a private 600 acre peninsula between Lower Lough Erne and Castle Hume Lough, is a course you will remember.

It will be no surprise that water comes into play a lot at Lough Erne, no less than 11 holes, and this is best tested at the tricky par 4 10th. Whilst being the 2nd shortest par 4 on the card, it is fraught with trouble, both off the tee and on your approach shot to the green. It takes an extremely accurate second shot as you are hitting into an island green, surrounded by Lower Lough Erne on left, right and back of the green.

Situated behind the 9th green, you would be well advised to stop at the Halfway House for a light bite before tackling the 'Emerald Isle' 10th.

To add to its growing number of accolades, one of the USA's most respected golf publications, Golfweek voted Lough Erne Resort 7th in its category of Best of Great Britain and Ireland's Modern Classic Courses for 2011.

Malone Golf Club

The layout of its 27 holes, the lake, the tree lined drive and the seasonal splendour of flowers and trees make Malone a special place to play golf.

Malone Golf Club has been a part of the sporting and social life of Belfast for more than one hundred years. Its present site of Ballydrain Estate is 330 acres of wooded parkland just 5 miles from Belfast.

The site boasts 27 holes made up of Ballydrain, Drumbridge and Edenderry nines. The first two usually make up the main course but the Edenderry is great for young and new golfers to enjoy the game.

The centrepiece of the course is the natural trout lake extending for some 27 acres. The plentiful mature trees shape many of the holes with the lake coming into play on the 13th. The 15th features a tee shot over water to a tricky green. The round finishes with a daunting drive and any ball to the right of the 18th green is water bound so beware!

Since 1895, Malone has become famous across Ireland with many excellent amateur golfers and successful teams winning multiple All-Ireland pennants. These are all proudly displayed in the comfortable and welcoming clubhouse, which features the Ballydrain Bar and breathtaking views over the final hole, the lake and surrounding countryside.

Massereene Golf Club

Established in 1895, Massereene Golf Club offers a challenging and picturesque 18 hole par 72 parkland course. With panoramic views over Lough Neagh, it creates a challenge for all levels of skill and experience.

Situated on the north shores of Lough Neagh, Massereene Golf Club enjoys panoramic views of the Lough as far as County Tyrone on the west side. Stretched over 140 acres, you can enjoy a stunning parkland course with an array of fairways outlined by mature trees.

The first hole is a good indication of what challenge lie ahead. The first nine are tree lined with well placed bunkers; the inward nine consists of more undulating fairways, reminiscent of a links course, finishing on the 18th green beside the clubhouse.

Equally the narrow fairways and small greens place a priority on accuracy rather than distance, making it a rewarding test for even the lower handicap golfer.

With lush fairways, silky smooth greens and spectacular views of Lough Neagh, Massereene Golf Club offers a fantastic challenge and a wonderful day out.

Newtownstewart Golf Club

This delightful course lies at the foot of Bessie Bell mountain, two miles from the town of Newtownstewart. Mature trees and natural fairway undulations make this an interesting and enjoyable challenge for golfers of all standards.

The club is easily accessible, just five minutes from the main A5 Omagh to Strabane road. This beautiful 18th hole parkland course commands panoramic views of the surrounding Sperrin mountains and being part of the historic Baronscourt Estate has specimen oak and beech trees that are in excess of two hundred years old.

Omagh Golf Club

Situated in the heart of Tyrone's county town, Omagh Golf Club boasts a stunning 18 hole parkland course. Consisting of two contrasting nines situated either side of the Dublin Road, the par 71 offers a significant challenge to members and visitors alike.

Evolving from a testing 9-hole stretch in 1910, Omagh upgraded to an 18-hole course in 1983 under the expert design of Don Patterson, professional and golf architect. The new-look Omagh soon established itself as one of the province's finest parkland courses. Well publicised visits from Ireland golfing legend Christy O'Connor Jr, and multiple winner Nick Faldo (both of whom were complimentary about the test posed by the Omagh course) gave an indication of the club's progression in the 1980s.

Famed for its demanding par fours and fast paced greens, the 7th hole probably exemplifies this. Framing the mill on the hill, a real sight at twilight, this shot par 4 offers trouble all around. Bunkers and young trees on the right penalise those steering away from The Drumvagh River, whilst a second shot over an almost magnetic stream to a false fronted green nestling the riverbank can cause several wasted strokes.

Did You Know

Omagh Golf Club's recorded history dates back to 1891 when a heady 20 members listed it as one of ten clubs in existence in Ireland at that time. The Club then moved to its current site and affiliated in 1910, and in 2010 celebrated its centenary.

Portstewart Golf Club

Portstewart Golf Club is proud to offer 54 holes of golf spectacularly set on Northern Ireland's famous Causeway Coast with something to offer every golfer.

The Strand Course is the indisputable jewel in Portstewart's crown for quality of game and scenery. The course is set in classic links country amid towering sand dunes and views of the Donegal hills, the Atlantic and the River Bann. The first hole with its elevated tee, dogleg to the green and sandy strip on the right, is considered the best opening hole in Ireland.

For something less challenging, the Riverside Course stretches from the clubhouse down to the River Bann. And if you like a little heritage in your game, the original Old Course has tested players since 1894.

The present clubhouse has come a long way from the corrugated iron and wooden frame of 1895. The present building, completed in 2009, makes it one of the most modern clubhouses in Ireland.

Without doubt, Portstewart has championship pedigree having hosted numerous important events and competitions including the qualifying rounds of The Open in 1951, the British Ladies Senior Championship in 2004 and the British Girls Amateur Championship in 2006.

Maureen Madill was undoubtedly the most successful golfer that Portstewart ever produced. She was three times Ulster Ladies Champion, an Irish International champion from 1978 to 1985, British Amateur Stroke play champion 1980 and British Ladies match play Champion 1986.

Roe Park Resort

Roe Park Resort is set amidst the gorgeous surroundings of the Roe Valley Country Park, offering first-class amenities for every level of golfer.

This 18 hole course is a welcome and very popular course along the Causeway Coast. The layout includes a number of challenging water features and takes full advantage of this beautiful setting, with Lough Foyle and the Sperrin Mountains providing a dramatic backdrop.

The 265 yard, par 4 15th hole provides a real risk and reward opportunity with the long hitters being able to reach it from the elevated tee. The sympathetically restored 18th century Coach House contains the informal dining Brasserie, which immediately overlooks the 6th hole from tee to green, allowing diners to become "armchair golfers" for the day !

The Golf Academy is designed to provide the best facilities to help you improve your game, whether you're an absolute beginner or the next Rory McIlroy. Royal Belfast Golf Club

Founded in 1881, Royal Belfast Golf Club lays claim to the title of the oldest golf course in Ireland.

In the summer of 1881 Thomas Sinclair spent a holiday in St. Andrews, Scotland. He was totally smitten by the game of golf and persuaded the Laird of Holywood to generously give his land free of rent at Kinnegar, Holywood for a golf course.

In 1885 the club became "Royal" after the Prince of Wales was invited to become its Patron during a visit to Ireland. The current Patron is HRH Prince Andrew, Duke of York.

The present course dates back to 1925, when H.S. Colt, the eminent English course architect, assisted by Walker Cup player W.A. Murray, produced a course of great charm which provides a true test of golfing skill and enjoys one of the most scenic settings with its unrivalled views of Belfast Lough.

The course remains much the same today as it was then, a tribute to the enduring excellence of its original design, always meticulously maintained with impeccable greens. Visiting players are always warmly welcomed to enjoy a real slice of history.

Royal County Down Golf Club

Through all the changes of the years, Royal County Down has retained its essential character. "It is one of those rare courses where you could feel a perfect handshake between the hand that created the land and the hand that shaped it into a golf course." (Tom Coyne, "A Course called Ireland")

Royal County Down is located in the naturally beautiful links setting of the Murlough Nature Reserve, where the links stretch along the shores of Dundrum Bay.

Narrow ribbons of fairways thread their way through sand dunes surrounded by heather and gorse – so beautiful but also punishing!

The famous 'bearded' bunkers feature overhanging lips of red fescue and heather. The greens are fast and many are domed, rejecting any shot lacking conviction.

The 9th hole is one of the most photographed holes in golf. A 486 yard par 4, it is played from one side of a huge mound to a fairway 60ft below and 260 yards from the tee. The second shot is played over two bunkers to a raised green.

Golf writer Bernard Darwin described the course as one of "big and glorious carries, nestling greens, entertainingly blind shots, local knowledge and beautiful turf – the kind of golf that people play in their most ecstatic dreams."

Did you know?

Royal County Down was originally laid out in 1889 by 'Old' Tom Morris from St. Andrews. The Club Council, in a mixture of enthusiasm and parsimony, commissioned Tom to travel from Scotland "for a sum not to exceed £4" to advise on a second nine holes.

Royal Portrush Golf Club

Founded in 1888, the legendary Royal Portrush Golf Club has two Championship Courses – the renowned Dunluce Course, where Darren Clarke plays while at home, and the smaller but equally enjoyable Valley Course, where Graeme McDowell, former US Open Champion, learnt his golf at an early age.

The Dunluce Course, re-designed in 1947 by Mr. H.S. Colt and later in 1951, became host to the first ever Open Championship held in Ireland. During the entire tournament only two golfers managed to break 70. It's easy to see why; the greens are scattered among huge sand dunes gently raised above the Antrim Coast providing vistas of sea, cliffs and islands.

Portrush's most celebrated holes are the 5th hole and the 14th. The par 4 5th, White Rock is one of the most exhilarating two-shots in golf. Over hit the second shot, and your ball disappears into the Atlantic! The aptly named 14th hole, 'Calamity' requires total precision to carry the ball over an enormous ravine. Mis-hit this one and you could be taking your next swing from at least fifty feet below the hole. Is it any wonder that Golf World magazine regularly rates Portrush in the world's top twenty golf courses?

Did you know?

Rory McIlroy holds a course record at Royal Portrush from his amateur days. He was playing in the North of Ireland Championship in July 2005, playing off a +4 handicap and shot a 61. You can see his card displayed in the Club cabinet.

Shandon Park Golf Club

Shandon Park is a popular parkland course in East Belfast, boasting the best greens you'll find anywhere in Northern Ireland. It has superb clubhouse facilities and is only 15 minutes from the centre of Belfast.

The original name of the club which played on this course was Knock Golf Club, formed in 1895. It wasn't until 1925 that the idea of establishing Shandon Golf Club was conceived after Knock Golf Club moved to their present location on the outskirts of Belfast.

For seven decades the club has had a veritable production line of international players who have represented their country, and Walker Cup teams of distinction. The most recent of these is Michael Hoey, 4 time winner on the European Tour and recent holder of The Dunhill Trophy.

It is an amazing course that is not excessively long, but provides a top class challenge due to the exceedingly high standards of its greens.

The club built a new clubhouse in 2000 and successfully hosted The All Ireland finals in 2007.

St. Patrick's Golf Club

Naturally crafted out of the historic drumlins of Down, St. Patrick's is a classic and challenging parkland course, boasting spectacular views of the County, including the Mountains of Mourne, Strangford Lough and as far as the Isle of Man.

Established in 1930, the course has had nearly 85 years to mature and produce greens that rival any of the championship courses in Ireland. The layout and style of the course makes it an interesting challenge that plays very much like a links course. Look out for the testing par 4 7th, the stunning par 3 11th, and the par 4 14th.

One of Ireland's best kept golfing secrets St Patrick's Golf Club, Downpatrick is well known for extending a warm welcome to its visitors who come from near and far. The course offers golfers of all abilities a breath-taking challenge on a natural stage and our clubhouse boasts fantastic facilities in which to dine and relax.

Did You Know

Downpatrick is derived from the Irish, Dún Pádraig, meaning "Patrick's stronghold". Once the ancient city of Down, the town's cathedral is also said to be the burial place of Saint Patrick.

Tandragee Golf Club

Views from the 10th hole tee span three counties with the Slieve Donard mountain in County Down on the left and the Sperrin Mountains in County Tyrone ahead.

The course was developed in 1911 on the Duke of Manchester's Estate and green fees were collected at the Gate Lodge, which is still the entrance to the club. In 1928, green fees were set at "two shillings per day with no reduction for visitors staying with members overnight".

Tandragee Golf Club is a formidable yet picturesque 18 hole parkland course, set in the scenic County Armagh countryside. Parts of the course overlook the ancient Tandragee Castle and on many holes golfers can admire the mature woodlands astride the fast flowing River Cusher. The duck pond is an unusual attraction at Tandragee Golf Club, often visited by golfers and non-golfers alike.

'The Wall', par 4 11th, is regarded as the signature hole and commands respect. The original boundary wall of the Estate marks out of bounds on the right while the trees on the left guide you to a slightly hidden green.

Did you know?

In 1911, during the creation of the course, the Duchess of Manchester, who was from Cincinnati, Ohio, designed some of the original bunkers, which were laid out in the shape of America's Great Lakes. These remain to this day.

Warrenpoint Golf Club

The club is very proud of its record in producing great amateur golfers over the years as well as titles. 18 All-Ireland titles have been won by Warrenpoint Golf Club since 1981.

This attractive parkland course is set in part of the luxurious Hall Estate, home to Narrow Water Castle - the inspiration for the club badge. The clubhouse enjoys views of the Cooley Mountains of County Louth and the estuary of Carlingford Lough.

Over 6000 yards, this course demands a high degree of accuracy and will test the golfer's shot-making capabilities. The par 4 7th 'Slieve Foy' is regarded as the signature hole, requiring a long high tee shot to get over the fir plantation. Two mature beech trees guard the approach to the well protected green. Extremely tight driving down a corridor of trees on the 12th and a green with danger all round on the 13th are great tests for even the most skilled.

A number of club members have represented Ireland & Great Britain in the Walker Cup and Curtis Cup teams. Ronan Rafferty, who is now a golf commentator and analyst, was a Dunhill Cup winner and played in the Ryder Cup.

Did you know?

Club member Jim Carvill, amongst having the honour of playing for Ireland at senior level, also has the world record for the fastest ever round of golf. He achieved it in 27 minutes and 30 seconds, playing to R&A rules and shot a respectable 83.

The game isn't over until you've experienced the 19th!

Especially in Northern Ireland! In fact, the 19th hole is the best way to enjoy a well-earned break after putting your skills to the ultimate golfing challenge around one of our courses.

A stopover at the 19th is also a great opportunity to sample our famous hospitality. Here, you can share your experiences, tips and tall tales and pick up useful suggestions from the local 'regulars' who know every bunker and tree – the insight could make all the difference on your next round!

Be sure to indulge in an excellent meal and sample the local tipplers – like a smooth single malt, distilled just a few miles up the road at the Bushmills Distillery or a refreshing pint of Guinness just hits the spot. As locals say "there's eating and drinking in it".

After an hour or two at the 19th hole you'll realise how the clubhouses, wherever you go, are the perfect way to end the perfect day!
